Energy Co-op Kaiwaka Second Public Meeting

Solarise your house: Energy Co-op Kaiwaka organises a second group purchase

The Energy Co-op Kaiwaka realised a successful group purchase for 12 families with the aim to buy the best available solar hot water technology at strongly reduced cost.

Local energy expert Eric Janssens has selected carefully the solar equipment, imported from Europe with worldwide certification and proven lifespan of 30 years. Payments conditions are straight forward, with no hidden cost and affordable installation prices with a trained solar team.

Florian & Anna on their solar collector

Armand Bryan Pookey: solar power and hot water

The combination of gas for cooking, hot water production and solar hot water is the most cost-effective way to run your house. The Energy Co-op offers a second group purchase including gas cooktops, gas bottles, solar hot water and solar power.

In the case of a typical 4 persons house, the following savings can be realised compared to all electrical use at 28 c/kWh (incl. GST):

APPLICATION	SAVINGS/YEAR
Cooking on LPG gas instead of electric	$ 56
Hot water on LPG gas instead of electric	$ 420
Solar Hot Water (European state of the art)	$ 787
Solar Power 2 kW peak (Northern location)	$ 784

Testimonials –

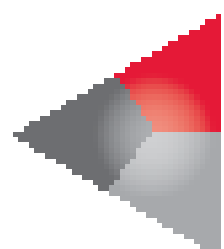

"I was impressed with the professional manner in which Kim started us on a painless journey of building our dream home. We already had our plan, but Kim quickly showed us ways in which our building costs could be saved, and take advantage of our amazing views. Kim and Karen (his wife and interior design consultant) are professional, organised and dedicated to building an absolutely quality home. Communication is great, regular updates from Kim and periodic phone calls from us are dealt with stress free. Nothing is a problem, hell there is lots to take the stress away from us as we continue to build our dream home with a team of professionals."

- Robyn Eldon and Dean Phillips

"The first plan I'd come to him he one night he rang us that thing the next morning and showed us around. On opening the wall we could see why. It was exactly what we wanted. Kim gave us a fixed price and time frame up front. We rather doubted his ambitious completion date, as it didn't seem possible to us that someone could build a close to 300 square meter home in 4 months. We had some atrocious weather during the build but Kim still managed to give us keys just one week later than he promised. Kim organisation skills and forward planning were a dream."

It was clear that he had a great relationship with all his subcontractors and midweek he has built up over his many years operating in the Mangonui area. I have no hesitation in recommending Kim and Cavern Homes to anyone looking to build in Mangonui."

Teamwork takes cadet unit to national skills comp

Once again Mangawhai Cadet Unit produced outstanding results at the recent Northern Regional Skills Competition.

After training nearly every weekend for the last term and despite having several new members as older cadets, the younger ones stepped up and performed at an exceptionally high standard.

"In competition, individuals find they're 'on their own' in which case the discipline of cadets has taught them to lift their game," says unit commander Sandra Grayson.

"On the other hand 'no man is an island' and the Mangawhai troop have learned, and learned well, the art of team play, team spirit and getting the best from each other collectively."

Few cadet troops around the country know where Mangawhai is, but when it comes to national competitions, the Mangawhai team is almost always the team to look out for.

Skills results in each discipline were: 1st Drill, 1st RFL (Required Fitness Level), 1st GSK (General Service Knowledge), 1st Toets (Firearm Safety), 1st Ratel (Radio Communication), 1st Observation, 1st Initiative, 1st Cas E Vac (First Aid and stretcher carry), 1st Navigation Theory, 1st= Equipment Carry, 2nd Shooting, 4th Navigation Practical.

Competition this year was held in very cold, wet and windy weather.

"This is the seventh consecutive year that we have won Regional Skills," says Sandra Grayson. "We will now continue training every weekend for the national competition to be held in Ohakea, Palmerston North first weekend in November."

They can be assured of our full support.

New track opens Labour Weekend

By Rob Pooley

Though none will attest to any great athletic ability, by the Mangawhai community they are all seen as 'track stars' – the 40-odd volunteers, mainly men but with a sprinkling of women – who meet regularly on a Friday to hone, hammer, chop and clear Mangawhai's growing labyrinth of walkways and cycle pathways.

One of the most recent completions is the Tanekaha Track, opening officially on Labour weekend, completing a loop from King Rd across the Brynderwyns and back down the Forest track, a hike of up to five hours.

On the drawing board is over three kilometres of mountain bike and walking tracks on the 150 hectares of Browns Farm. Following two years of discussions the development plan has been agreed in principle by the Kaipara District Council.

Discussions are also ongoing with the Northland regional Council regarding the establishment of a beach walk including a boardwalk around Estuary Drive and Back Bay to the Pearson St inlet.

In the meantime, tracks around the Mangawhai Activity Zone are progressing with one running well away from the main road passing the treatment plant and the back of the golf course and coming out at Thelma Rd North. With the completion of the St John Station site both bike and walking track development will continue and it is intended they will link up to form a number of optional walks for all abilities and encompassing a variety of scenery.

A recent community meeting was attended by a crowd of over 60 people. Spokesman for the TRAX4U team, Gordon Hosking, said he was really heartened by the turnout at the daytime mid-week meeting.

"I thought it was a great show of community support," he said.

Gordon, who has a lifetime associated with things 'forestry' is also the local 'go to' man for the reforestation programme Project Crimson so being a part of the TRAX4U operation was almost a natural progression for him.

"We have a great team and those who can turn up for a few hours each Friday do so if they can," he said.

Work groups number anywhere from six to a dozen but it's surprising just how much can be achieved in a short time with a number of people – and even a break for tea and scones. There is great camaraderie within the team says Gordon so it's as much a social event as a working bee.

Now divided into two groups depending on energy and ability there are those who manage the heavier work but no less important are those who attend to regular maintenance in keeping the tracks cleared of debris, especially after months of nasty weather.

And the tracks are not just for locals either. Holiday and overnight visitors are constantly looking to explore all the corners of Mangawhai which all helps to promote the town.

MANY HANDS: The Mangawhai TRAX4U trackers busy starting a new track extending behind the golf course.

Scouts benefit from Mangawhai Club grant

The Mangawhai/Kaiwaka Scout Troop has received a substantial grant from the Mangawhai Club allowing local Scouts to attend the Jamboree On The Air (JOTA) and Jamboree On The Internet (JOTI) and amateur radio in Auckland.

This jamboree incorporates all kinds of technology to contact Scouts on a global basis. The international event will see Scouts from all around the world get together on October 18-19.

The jamboree runs for two full days and with the financial support of the Mangawhai Club, local scouts are able to stay onsite and talk with scouts from the other side of the world during the night via the internet and amateur radio.

The troop will also be visiting Kelly Tarlton's Sea Life Aquarium to learn about their sea conservation initiatives and specifically how global warming is effecting sea life, and relating this to the Mangawhai coastline.

"It is really great that our local community is supporting their Scout troop and we thank the Mangawhai Club for their very generous donation," says Scout leader Jenny Webb.

The local troop has become popular and is growing steadily with a new leader about to get his warrant, and some older members completing the Cosgrove and Sandford Scout training course are now assuming leadership roles.

Any young person between 11 and 14 who would like to join the troop, please contact Scout leader Jenny Webb on 431 4747.

Bluesman drops in with solo show

Charismatic singer songwriter, Hammond Gamble, has long been a feature of New Zealand's live music scene.

In a career spanning over four decades, Hammond has delivered his distinctive vocals and guitar across the country.

He is renowned for his soulful blues-inspired performances, whether playing solo acoustic or with an electric band.

It is not only inspired live performances that are Hammond's forte - he has written and recorded songs in many different guises, releasing a number of albums and accruing a collection of acclaimed awards along the way.

He has supported many major international acts including Tina Turner, Bonnie Raitt, Fleetwood Mac, Joe Cocker, and the Eagles.

This year he has been performing select solo shows while writing new material for recording early next year.

Gamble is coming soon to Sail Rock Café. See advertisement this page.
